Legislature Will Adjourn After Its Shortest Session

HARRISBURG (AP)—The legislature agreed Tuesday to wind up the shortest regular session in its 186-year history at 4:30 p.m., EST, Wednesday.

Agreement by the House and Senate on final adjournment of the 1962 General Assembly capped a lackluster session limited by law to budget and finance matters.

The lawmakers—counting the final meeting—will have met a grand total of 20 days since Jan. 2 to approve Gov. Lawrence's proposed $1 billion general fund budget with only minor changes.

Few Disputes

The session is the first since the immediate post World War II days unmarred by prolonged disputes over taxes and other revenue-raising plans.

Gov. Lawrence forecast—and lawmakers in general agreed—that the state's growing economy would provide a base for enough additional revenue to finance an approximately 5.5 per cent boost in state spending for the 1962-63 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The House approved the adjournment resolution, 108-92. The Senate agreed to the proposal less than a half-hour later on a voice vote.

Parties Differ

In the House Republicans generally opposed and Democrats favored adjournment.

"The work is done," said Rep. Stephen McCann, House Democratic floor leader, in appealing for support on adjournment.

But Rep. Richard L. Adams, R-Berks, said lawmakers faced "legislative hara kiri" in adjourning before Gov. Lawrence acts on the bills approved this week.

Should the governor veto the legislation, he contended, the lawmakers would have no means of overriding the veto or seeking replacement legislation.

House Speaker H. G. Andrews also joined the opposition on grounds of his long-standing policy of opposition to adjournment of the legislature.

No regular legislative session has ever been shorter than 1962. Only one session—that of 1801—adjourned earlier. It quit Feb. 27. However, in those days the legislature convened Dec. 1.

A number of special legislative sessions have been shorter, including a special six-day meeting in January to act on a congressional reapportionment plan.

With adjournment impending, only two major pieces of work remain for action.

Both Houses are expected to give final approval to a bill appropriating $20 million for Pennsylvania State University. The House approved the measure several weeks ago. The Senate added $200,000 for research on detergents. The House declined to agree to the change. A joint House-Senate conference committee agreed to the House version.

Project 70

The House is also expected to give final approval to a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow the Commonwealth to borrow up to $70 million for Project 70—a program of conservation and park development.

The proposal would also have to be approved by the 1963 Legislature and a voters' referendum before it becomes law.

News In Brief

Stock Exchange Head Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell, board chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, was indicted Tuesday on charges of evading $35,908 in federal income taxes. He immediately resigned, claiming persecution from "high places in Washington."

There was no indication in the grand jury complaint that the investing public suffered in any way. Bidwell called the charges a personal matter.

Bidwell was accused of concealing capital gains, and faking expenses for travel, charitable contributions and entertainment. He could go to prison for a maximum 10 years if convicted.

Engineers Ask New Reservoirs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army engineers have recommended construction of reservoirs on Fall Brook Creek and Aylesworth Creek and flood protection works on the Lackawanna River in the Scranton, Pa., area, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., was informed Tuesday.

Estimated cost of the three projects is $6,601,000, with $2,224,000 to be provided by the government. The estimated cost for operation, maintenance and replacements would be $37,300 annually.

A Clark aide said if no objections are posted by March 21 the projects will go to the budget bureau for approval.

Yugoslav Blast Kills 52 Miners

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Two explosions in Yugoslavia's biggest lignite coal mine killed 52 miners and critically injured 11 Tuesday, mine officials reported. Two others were missing and believed dead.

The blasts trapped 177 men below ground but quick work by rescuers saved 123 of them, officials added.

A committee of mining experts said their investigation indicated the explosion was in a store room of the shaft where explosives were stored.

Conscience Tax Nets $600,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government collected about $600,000 last month in voluntary payments from taxpayers with guilty consciences.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin in testimony made public Tuesday said many of the payments were prompted by fear that errors would be uncovered once the revenue service begins using electronic computers to check income tax returns.

Caplin appeared before a House Appropriations committee Feb. 2. Details of the January payments were provided by the revenue service, which reported a total of 39 cases. Individual payments ranged from $64.48 to $233,778.

Algerian Peace Is Said To Be Close

ALGIER (AP)—The Algerian rebel parliament agreed in Tripoli Tuesday to the Paris-approved peace terms, informed sources said. But the rightist Secret Army Organization, vowing to keep Algeria French, and North African Moslems fought on.

Though French authorities looked for a quick cease-fire in the 7½-year-old nationalist rebellion, the chance for an end to the terrorist bloodshed looked remote.

French Premier Michel Debre ordered French military commanders to deploy reserve forces through Algeria's major cities to curb the killings.

But the day's toll was 16 dead and 33 wounded. Six persons were slain and 23 wounded in Algiers alone.

Gunmen believed to be working for the Secret Army Organization's treasury staged a series of holdups in Algiers, Constantine and Oran and netted $158,000.

The 54-member rebel parliament, which has been meeting in secret since last Thursday at Tripoli, examined the peace accord reached in Switzerland.

News Withheld

Well-informed sources said announcement of acceptance would be withheld until the rebel leaders return to their headquarters in exile in Tunis. France's Cabinet approved the agreement last week.

The agreement calls for a cease-fire and a transitional period in which a self-determination referendum will be held in Algeria. With North Africans making up about 90 per cent of Algeria's 10-million people, the referendum is expected to show an overwhelming vote for independence from France.

Tax Revision Measure To Go To House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill that would encourage business to spend on modern equipment, as President Kennedy advocates, but that would also threaten his budget balance plan, headed for the House Tuesday.

The Ways and Means Committee finished all but formalities of its work on the complex tax revision measure.

The bill would allow a direct credit of 8 per cent against income tax on new machinery and other productive equipment, but not buildings. It is estimated that would permit business to recoup $1.8 billion of outlays for such purposes in the first year of operation.

On the other side of the ledger are a series of tax-tightening provisions intended to offset the $1.8 billion loss of revenue. But while the administration asked for enough of these to keep the books in balance, the committee left a net revenue loss estimated unofficially and roughly at $600 million.

The Treasury has not yet estimated the effect of the latest changes approved.

The final decisions made by the committee Tuesday were largely in the complex field of taxation of profits of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. companies. In general, such profits now are subject to U.S. tax only when they are returned to the parent company in this country.

A special encouragement for investment in underdeveloped countries would be provided.

Nehru Party Near Victory In Election

NEW DELHI, India, (TP)—Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party virtually clinched victory in India's national election Tuesday night but Communists, capitalizing on local grievances, picked up scattered strength.

Despite a slackening in vote-pulling strength by some Congress candidates, the party remained in power. There was no single opposition party to challenge the dominance it has held over India's affairs since independence in 1947.

Congress' most controversial candidate, Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, pulled into a commanding lead in his race for re-election to Parliament against charges he is soft on communism.

Returns from Menon's district in Bombay gave him 149,746 votes and his chief rival, J. B. Kripalani, 78,126, with vote tabulations at the halfway mark.

In the race for the 494-seat national Parliament, Congress party candidates had taken 93 seats of the 135 so far tabulated. Communists and their followers were second with 18; they held 30 in the outgoing Parliament.

At Committee Hearing:

Astronaut Warns Not All Space Flights Will Return

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. said Tuesday his fiery return to earth "could have been a bad day at Black Rock." He hinted that he and his fellow astronauts were ready for worse emergencies in the future.

"Not every flight can come back as successfully as the three we have had so far," Glenn told the House Science and Astronautics Committee.

Glenn testified as the committee opened hearings on the administration's $3.5-billion space budget request for the coming year. With him were the two men who preceded his three-around-the-world journey last week by making shorter flights, Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom.

All three exhibited the ease, poise and good humor they have always displayed. Secretaries crowded into the small hearing room and made the hall outside ring with their squeals when the bronzed Glenn and his comrades came out.

Glenn sounded his note of caution when asked whether it would be better to have trained scientists along on future flights.

Because of the possibility of emergencies, Glenn said, "At least for the immediate future, we can better use pilots than scientists." It is hoped that spacecraft some day will be large enough to carry specialists, too, he said.

Glenn gave a vivid description again of his own uneasiness at the possible loss of his heat shield when he was still aloft. Without it, scientists agree, he would have burned up.

A radio signal had indicated to the ground control that the heat shield on the capsule had come unattached. Shepard said 90 per cent of those on the ground thought the signal was a false one but "we reached the decisions that we could not afford to take a chance." Glenn was told to retain the braking rockets, to help hold on the heat shield, instead of jettisoning them normally.

During the re-entry, Glenn said, flaming bits of wreckage raced past his window. Had they been parts of the heat shield instead of the rocket package, he testified, "it could have been a bad day at Black Rock." He referred to the old movie title that has come to mean a time of disaster.

Glenn said he was 100 per cent confident in the judgment of those on the ground.

James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the committee "the ablest men in America were available to make that decision and I believe John Glenn knew that."

Webb and space flight Director Robert R. Gilruth preceded the astronauts at the witness table.

The three spacemen are slated to go over the same ground before the Senate Space Committee Wednesday.

Shepard said he had been asked many times "where do we get our luck," or told "we certainly have been lucky."

"We make our own luck," he said. "By careful, detailed attention" to everything that goes into a space flight.

Webb sketched in plans for future space development. He said the Mercury program would be wound up this year with more three-orbit flights and an 18-orbit flight perhaps by the end of the year.

Plans for reaching the moon are centered on the space rendezvous technique, Webb said; that is, building a moon rocket in an earth orbit by hooking together components fired up at different times.

This would be quicker and cheaper than trying to reach the moon directly. But the development of the huge Nova rocket to fly directly to the moon is proceeding in case space rendezvous is not feasible, Webb said.

Webb said the official estimate for a first flight to the moon and return was "the end of the decade," but if everything goes right it might come by 1968. "I don't know where they get this 1967 figure," Webb said.

Scott Offers Compromise But Gets No Takers On Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Scott said Tuesday he would bow out as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination if the party endorses Rep. William W. Scranton as its candidate.

Speaking at a news conference, Scott said also he would not object to selection of Rep. James E. Van Zandt of Altoona as the Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate.

Thus did Scott reply to Judge Robert E. Woodside of the state Superior Court, who withdrew Monday as a candidate for governor in favor of Van Zandt. The judge called upon Scott to do the same in the interest of party unity.

Trading Punches

Scott and Woodside have been trading verbal punches for several weeks in a bitter wrangle over the party's slate for the May primary election. The senator admittedly entered the field to stop Woodside from gaining the nomination.

Scott, who has the backing of former President Eisenhower, either as a candidate or as a slate maker, said at his news conference:

"Weighing advice on both sides, I have come to the conclusion that in order to avoid a primary election fight, if at all possible, I am willing to withdraw my candidacy for governor for Scranton."

"Having been advised that Scranton considers Van Zandt acceptable as Senate nominee, and having had favorable reports from a number of Republican county chairmen, such a solution—to avoid a primary fight—is acceptable to me."

Scranton Available

Scranton on Feb. 13, announced he would be available for the gubernatorial nomination for the sake of party harmony. He said he made himself available reluctantly. Scott said he believed Scranton stood by that statement.

Scranton, in a later interview, said he stood by his Feb. 13 statement that he is available as a compromise candidate.

"That is," said Scranton, "if both groups would agree in any candidate, this is fine by me. If that person happened to be me, I would run provided both groups were dedicated to real harmony."

He said he meant he wanted no major opposition in a primary election.

Van Zandt's View

Van Zandt, he said, would be acceptable to him as a running mate for senator.

If Van Zandt does not withdraw as a gubernatorial candidate, Scranton said, "then that will mean a primary battle between Van Zandt and Sen. Scott."

"And in that case, I would be a candidate for reelection to the House—as I am now," said Scranton.

The first break in the Scott-Woodside deadlock came last Saturday, when the two met at a secret meeting and agreed that under certain conditions they would be willing to drop out of the gubernatorial field.

Announced Withdrawal

Then, Monday, after a day-long meeting of Woodside backers, the judge announced his withdrawal. He said, however, he was bowing out in favor of Van Zandt for governor. Van Zandt, who originally was a candidate for his party's gubernatorial nod, but withdrew to run for the senate on a Woodside ticket, said:

"It is agreeable to me to become the Republican party's candidate for governor."

Tuesday, upon hearing of Scott's announcement, Van Zandt commented, "All I know is what I was told over the phone after the conference (Tuesday)." He said he was under the impression Scott opposed his candidacy for either governor or senator.

Still A Candidate

"But if Mr. Scott is willing to accept the compromise (ticket of Scranton for governor and Van Zandt for senator), then he should go to the conference and tell them," Van Zandt said.

"Meanwhile, I am a candidate for governor."

Van Zandt said also he had dinner with Woodside Sunday night in Harrisburg, and that the judge then informed him he was withdrawing from the governor's race in favor of Scranton.

Scott told reporters Tuesday that after the meeting Monday of southeastern Pennsylvania Republican leaders he received a call from George I. Bloom, state Republican chairman who attended the meeting. Bloom informed him, said Scott, that Woodside had agreed to withdraw and asked Scott to do the same immediately.

Scott said Bloom told him the Woodside group would support Scranton for governor and Van Zandt for senator. Scott said he asked for one day to consult with his political associates and with some county leaders.

The senator said he was not granted that day for consultation, and as a result the southeastern group came out for Van Zandt for governor. Scott said he told Bloom he would "not accept any ultimatum from the group because I have said from the beginning that my decision would be governed by the county leaders and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

In Harrisburg, Bloom said of the Scott announcement:

"It is regrettable that Sen. Scott did not say this (Monday) when unity depended on his joining with me in recommending a Van Zandt-Scranton ticket (Van Zandt for senator, Scranton for governor) to the county organizations. I can't say any more at this time."

Scott said:

"I do not see the necessity for a primary fight unless there is an insistence that one or more announced candidates stay in the race. If that happens then I too will file nominating petitions—probably on Friday or next Monday."

Expect Kennedy Endorsement Of Tocks Island Recreation Area

Special To The Daily Record

Rep. Francis E. Walter last night indicated that President Kennedy will give a boost to the Easton Congressman's proposal for a national recreation area at Tocks Island.

The endorsement is expected to come during President Kennedy's conservation message to Congress today (Wednesday).

The message will not be made public until noon.

It was learned that Walter will introduce legislation setting up a national recreation area in the Poconos immediately after the President's message is delivered.

Walter and Interior Secretary Stewart Udall have been coordinating their activities in recent months and have developed a plan for the recreation area at Tocks Island.

It will be tied into the proposed Tocks Island Dam and reservoir, which will be built north of Delaware Water Gap and is one of the main projects in the Corps of Engineers development plan for the Delaware Basin.

Walter sparked enactment of the Delaware River Basin Compact in the first session of this Congress.

The compact links the states of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware and the Federal government into a partnership working together for the orderly development of the basin water resources.

Walter Seeks Placement Of Water Pollution Lab In Area

Special To The Daily Record

WASHINGTON — A federal survey team will study Lehigh University's request that a major water pollution control laboratory be set up in the Delaware River Basin area.

Rep. Francis E. Walter last night said a team from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will visit the area within the next month.

HEW is in the process of selecting seven major water pollution control laboratories throughout the country.

The mid-Atlantic facility has not been selected and it is this one that Walter hopes the federal government will place in the Delaware Basin.

Walter has appealed to Secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff of HEW in locating the laboratory in the Delaware Basin and to give "strong consideration" to the proposal made by George R. Jenkins, director of research at Lehigh University, Bethlehem.

Jenkins has suggested that the federal laboratory be located somewhere between Tocks Island and Yardley.

If it is not located on the main stem of the Delaware, Jenkins and Walter believe it should be placed in the Lehigh Valley area.

The Easton Congressman noted that many of the communities in the middle basin area have a surplus labor force and the background of experience of this force is largely industrial and technical and capable of operating a laboratory.

Daughter Claims Bodies Killed In Air Crash

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP)—A distraught young matron from Bristol, Pa., claimed Tuesday the bodies of her parents and sister, killed in a plane crash, while investigators scoured the scene for evidence of the case.

Mrs. Barbara Miccio came here early Tuesday to make funeral arrangements, but officials said she was too overcome by grief to be questioned.

Francis Gengler, 46-year-old Mount Carmel businessman and an amateur pilot, was flying home from a Florida vacation Sunday night with his wife and their only other child, Carol, 17.

Groping his way in heavy overcast, Gengler asked the Shamokin Airport by radio at 3:30 a. m. Monday to turn on the landing lights. That was the last heard from the doomed craft.

The wreckage was discovered late Monday by a farmer searching the area on horseback. Bodies of the Genglers two pet poodles, one black and the other white, were in the wreckage.

Autopsies were performed Tuesday at Geisinger Memorial Hospital in Danville.

Officials of the Civil Aeronautics Authority and local police carefully examined the wreckage and the immediate terrain Tuesday.

An investigator said unofficially there appeared to have been bad icing conditions on the wings.

It was announced that funeral services and burial for the three victims would be held Thursday in Mount Carmel.

Tape Recorders To 660,000

NEW YORK (AP)—James J. McLaughlin, marketing vice president of Webeur, Inc. of Chicago, forecast sales of 660,000 tape recorders in 1962. This would be 10 per cent above the record 600,000 domestic and imported units sold last year.

McLaughlin attributed the continued rise in sales to the development of cheaper, lighter and easier to operate recorders. Another factor, he said, is the consumer's ingenuity in finding more and more uses for the machines.

15, 1962, in the wage and salary worker category. These estimates, since they are made in mid-winter, practically exclude the seasonal impact which the resort season has on local employment.

A minor employment decline estimated at about 100 workers was recorded over the 2-month period ending Jan. 15 but this may be regarded as temporary and seasonal.

Total employment as recorded by reporting employers on Nov. 15, 1961 was about 8,700. On Jan. 15 it was 8,600. Female employment in these firms actually increased during this same period rising from 2,550 in November 1961 to about 2,600 in January.

Some Losses Expected
As an outlook, the bureau said some further employment losses will be felt over the next two months. While manufacturing employment is expected to remain at current levels, further reductions are in prospect in the service and resort activities. Recovery in April will be slowed because of an unusually late Easter which will likely retard recalls and new hires in the retail trades, it reported.

Construction appears to hold the key to any substantial employment improvement in the immediate future. If favorable weather prevails employment opportunities on proposed construction projects should be better than usual. The report said that commencing in mid-April employment will begin to rise and will continue in a rising trend till late summer.

Rain Causes Flooding In Area

IT HAS TO be this or that, and as the winter season gradually fades, it usually is both.

However, the Poconos have been experiencing much more rain than snow during February and records disclose such a fact.

Rainy February — which has always been expected of March—greeted the area with above normal precipitation.

A total of 1.4 inches of rain fell Monday and about .5 of an inch yesterday to bring the total precipitation for the month to 4 inches, far above the normal average of 2.61.

The weatherman at Avoca Airport, Wilkes-Barre had little new to report and said the weather should be about the same today (Wednesday).

The forecast called for fog and drizzle with the mercury expected between 34 and 40 degrees.

And while the rain continued to fall, the ponds and creeks grew heavier. Ponds were also plentiful on many of the streets and roads in the county and in some cases caused serious driving conditions.

Flooded cellars again plagued many residents as the steady downpour persisted. Cellars of homes in the higher levels were filled with water. A number of homes on Wallace Street were hit by the high water again. Firemen worked on a number of the residences to pump out the water.

Fog also shrouded wide sections of the Pocono Mountains last night making driving conditions rather hazardous.

The foggy conditions, which prevailed most of the night, were especially bad in the higher elevations.

The conditions result from the combination of mild temperatures and a snow cover which remains from February storms. Such foggy conditions are expected repeatedly at this time of the year because of a combination of the elements.

The heavy fog picture yesterday was generally bad along the East Coast and many of the flights due at Avoca Airport, Wilkes-Barre never originated. In some cases, pilots made no attempt to land.

While winter is still in session, there is always the possibility that the rain may change to snow. With the rain, and higher temperatures, fog does prevail. However, if the mercury drops there is a chance the rain will turn to snow and the fog will disappear.

There has been measurable precipitation on 23 of the 27 days of February. On several occasions the area was spared a major snowfall because of the mild temperatures.

Course In Politics Set For 'Y'

AN ACTION course in practical politics will be repeated again this year at the Young Men's Christian Association. This course in practical politics was developed by the National Chamber of Commerce. The objective of the course is "To enable individuals in local groups to learn more about how they can become active—and effective—in the political party of their choice in their own community."

Last year through the cooperative effort of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and the YMCA quite a number of individuals took the course and pursued it to a successful conclusion. The course was conducted and directed under the leadership of Frank Ashley. The interest shown and the satisfaction gained by those taking the course indicated that a repeat program be conducted this year.

Mrs. Bertha G. Smith of the Chamber of Commerce has ordered and received from the National Chamber in Washington, D.C., the materials for the course and has turned them over to John Wilson, local YMCA secretary. Registrations are now being received at the YMCA for those interested.

Samuel H. Saunders of the Shaw Insulator Co. will be the director and discussion leader for the course beginning on Monday evening March 12.

There is no fee charged for the course. The only expense involved by the individuals taking the course is for the materials used in the sessions. A minimum of 12 people is required for the successful operation of the course and a maximum of 20. Any one desiring additional information regarding the course may get in touch with Secretary John R. Wilson at the YMCA.

Pre-School Registration Set In Bangor

BANGOR — Bangor Area Joint School officials have released the dates for the registration of pre-kindergarten children and children eligible by age for first grade who have not previously attended kindergarten.

Each child must have a certificate of temporary or successful vaccination, a birth certificate or baptismal certificate and certificates for childhood and polio immunizations when registering.

Due to the high rate of attendance in kindergarten, there are only a few pupils remaining to enter the first grade for the year 1962-63. Because of this, kindergarten and first grade registration are being combined this year.

The registration will be held the week of March 5 through March 9.

Children of chronological age who did not attend kindergarten, and who will be five (5) years and seven (7) months before September 1, 1962, are eligible to register for first grade.

Children who will be four (4) years and seven (7) months before September 1, 1962, are eligible to register for kindergarten.

Above children are eligible to register, but entrance is dependent upon the child's mental and emotional maturity when he takes the psychological pre-entrance test. This entrance requirement was formally established at the September 13, 1961 meeting of the Bangor Area Joint School Committee.

The Bangor Area Joint School System employs a Certificated Public School Psychologist and arrangements to test your child will be made immediately after the close of registration on Friday, March 9, 1962. You will be notified by card of the date, time, and place for your pre-testing appointment.

If unable to have your child vaccinated, due to a specific allergy or a contagious disease, please bring a written statement from your family physician stating the SPECIFIC reason for non-vaccination.

The registration schedule:

In Bangor — Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday (March 5, 6, 7) Mrs. Harding, Nurse's office, Market St., Bangor from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Thursday, Friday (March 8 and 9) Mrs. Harding, Nurse's office, 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Also on Monday, March 5, at Roosevelt Bldg., 8th and Pennsylvania Ave., from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Tuesday, March 6, McKinley Bldg., Miller St., from 1 to 3 p.m.

In Roseto: Monday, March 5, Mrs. Carvella, Columbus Bldg., Dante and Liberty Sts., from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

In Portland, Tuesday, March 6, Portland Bldg., Division St., from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and again from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Also in Bangor, Thursday, March 8 at Washington Bldg., RD 1, Route 191 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and again from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Inquiries may be made at the school nurse's office at JU 1-2163 from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m.

Classes will be held at the Columbus School, Roseto the same as last year with three morning and three afternoon classes. Class assignments will be made according to the geographic area of the pupils.

Austin J. Tobin, executive director of the Port of New York Authority, testified on behalf of his agency Monday at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing in Washington.

An ICC examiner is hearing testimony regarding the Norfolk and Western Railway's proposal to merge with the Nickel Plate and Wabash Railroads and purchase the Sandusky branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Port of New York Authority, a joint public agency of New York and New Jersey, has the responsibility to protect and promote the commerce of the two-state port district, Tobin said.

East Bangor Petition To Be Considered

THE petition of East Bangor School Board for jointure with the Pen Argyl Area Joint School System will be considered by the State Council of Education at its meeting in Harrisburg tomorrow. The merger petition has been rejected by the Northampton County School Board.

Many East Bangor pupils are currently attending the Pen Argyl school on a tuition basis. Dr. Ralph Swan, deputy director of the State Dept. of Public Instruction, has notified the Pen Argyl system that the present set-up is a violation of the education council's rules.

Dr. Swan said the Pen Argyl application for supplemental appropriations from the Dept. of Education is not valid since Regulation Seven of the council's standards for supplementary appropriations states that pupils not residents of the county-planned administrative units are not permitted to attend another school district at any expense to the state.

Under the Northampton County plan, East Bangor is included in the administrative unit for the Bangor area, not the Pen Argyl area.

Pen Argyl Drive Head Is Named

GEORGE Gary has been named chairman of the Pen Argyl area 1962 American Red Cross campaign for members and funds.

Gary is owner of the Slate Belt Thread Co. and resides at 435 W. Main St., Pen Argyl. He is a member of the Exchange Club of Pen Argyl and has been active in the Boy Scout movement.

Bangor Board Okays $500 To Library

BANGOR — Bangor Borough School Board at a special meeting last night authorized a contribution of $500 to help maintain the Bangor Public Library.

The amount will be placed in the 1962-63 budget. It is the first contribution to the library made by the board in eight years.

In other action, the board approved contracts for transporting Bangor pupils to the new senior high school building from April to June of this year.

Donald Williams of Upper Mt. Bethel Township will supply one bus to carry 40 pupils at a rate of $14 daily. Thomas Patti will supply one and one-half buses at the rate of $8.20 per day for each bus, to transport 80 or more pupils.

The Patti agreement is subject to the approval of the Upper Mt. Bethel Board since he will be carrying the Bangor students as a deadhead load.

A third contract was agreed to with James Palmeri to supply one bus at $8.20 a day to transport 50 pupils. His contract is subject to approval of the Lower Mt. Bethel Board for the same reason as the Patti agreement.

Since it is expected the senior high school will start classes at 8:25 a.m., all Bangor senior high pupils will assemble at the junior high school at Fourth St. to board buses between 8 and 8:05 a.m.

Roseto pupils will be transported on the half-bus supplied by Patti. The board also approved a request that the jointure supply a bus to haul kindergarten pupils for the 1962-63 term.

Education Survey

Approximately 11,000 school board members in Pennsylvania are taking part in a nationwide survey on the question of Federal aid to education. The survey is being conducted by the National School Boards Association, with the cooperation of the Pennsylvania State School Directors Association.

For many months we have been hearing high-level discussions on this question, but they have been mainly of a political character. It is to be hoped that the present survey will be conducted strictly on the basis of its value to education, and that the results produced will provide a reliable norm by which the man on the street can form an honest opinion.

The survey seeks to get beneath the superficial "yes" or "no" answer to the crucial question of Federal aid to education and to uncover the reasons for that answer. Therefore, board members will be questioned on whether they believe that their local districts can adequately finance from presently available local and state sources such items as construction of needed classrooms, expenditures for teachers' salaries, and necessary changes in curriculum and staffs to handle increased enrollments and community needs.

The survey will further inquire as to whether the local district presently shares in Federal funds for vocational education, school lunch programs, and aid in other areas. It will give opponents of Federal aid an opportunity to register their convictions and gives advocates of such aid an opportunity to indicate just what type of program they favor.

Since the survey is nationwide in its scope, it will also give a cross-section of opinion of all of the people in the land, and will evaluate the problems of each area individually.

To our mind, it is the first sensible approach to the question of Federal aid to education, and we wish the survey success.

PISA's Impressive Record

Governor Lawrence's budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year, now en route to adoption by the Legislature, proposes a $5-million appropriation for the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority. This figure represents a reduction of $3 million from the agency's previous allocation. That the Governor would recommend this substantial decrease is in itself a tribute to the authority and to the results it has achieved since it was created in 1955.

The cut in the appropriation was made possible because the authority at the end of 1961 had about $6 million in its revolving fund, with substantial receipts coming in each month in the form of principal and interest payments on loans which it had made to finance industrial development projects.

This is something of a new experience for PIDA, which in its infant years had to struggle along on inadequate funds. From the time former Governor Leader proposed the establishment of the agency to help Pennsylvania communities build new industrial plants, executive requests for appropriations for it were ruthlessly slashed by the Republican majority which controlled the State Senate. On one occasion when PIDA ran out of money and there was a danger that a big industrial firm might give up its plans to construct a new plant with state help, the Legislature had to come through in a hurry with an extra $2.2 million.

Up to this time, the authority has received appropriations totaling about $24 million and has made loans running to $23.5. The financial help it has given to communities has made possible 31,300 new jobs and an additional $115 million in annual payrolls in Pennsylvania. Scranton and Lackawanna County have been beneficiaries of this assistance in the form of loans for the construction of many of our new plants. There should be no need for further argument, in or out of the Legislature, to justify the existence and the continuance of this valuable agency.

The Two Party System

Political mechanism developed out of the history and tradition of a people rather than by planned foresight. Nothing in the Constitution provides for the two party system or any party at all.

Nevertheless, political parties did develop in the United States very early and the two-party system was well-established by the end of the single term in office of John Adams. It would be false, however, to suggest that throughout American history, only two parties have existed.

Actually, there are usually several parties, but none of the minor ones ever receive enough votes to affect the organization of the Congress. Therefore, when we refer to ours as a two party system, we realistically describe the actual political mechanism which prevails rather than the scheme intended.

There have been times when the minority party was so small as to give the impression that it had practically gone out of existence. When Abraham Lincoln was President, all the Southern Democrats withdrew, leaving the Democratic Party a weak limb in Congress.

Nevertheless, Lincoln encountered opposition throughout his Presidency, his own party—the Unionists who were a combination of Republicans and Northern anti-slave Democrats and radicals—splitting with him on many subjects.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, after his first term, encountered a shattered Republican Party which had so little strength that Roosevelt managed the unrecedented feat of being elected four times.

So desperate was Republican leadership that they chose a former Democrat, who had once been a Socialist, Wendell Willkie, to run against Roosevelt in the hope of bringing new blood into the party. In fact, Dwight D. Eisenhower, who, after five Republican failures, finally did manage to be elected, was a military man without political affiliations prior to his nomination.

From the standpoint of political history, the choice of Eisenhower rather than Taft, was an error, because the Republican Party was left without a program and without organic leadership. Eisenhower was what might be called a "national" President, and anomaly in the two party system. The party in power was left without leadership after the death of Senator Taft and has remained so to this day except for the assertions of Senator Barry Goldwater.

A clear distinction must be made between the assertions of leadership of Barry Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller. (For the moment, I omit Richard Nixon whose potentiality depends upon the California election.) Goldwater stands for a separate and distinct Republican Party which accepts a conservative program and rejects the theory that compromises in principle need be made to win elections.

Rockefeller follows the polls of public opinion and competes with the Democrats in seeking to win votes at any cost. Goldwater risks his political future by adhering to a definable political philosophy. Rockefeller seeks to meet the tide as it flows toward him. Goldwater would rather be right than President; Rockefeller would rather be President.

Out of this conflict of attitudes may develop a new political party of strength. The current opposition to the Kennedy Administration, as demonstrated by the vote on the establishment of the Urban Secretaryship, is principally within the Democratic Party.

However, this is not exclusively a political issue because racial and self-government factors are involved. It is not, for instance, to be expected that a Democratic Senator from Mississippi will favor a Negro in the Cabinet or that the large cities will support the idea of federal control of municipalities.

This proposal, from a strictly political standpoint, was as much an error as Roosevelt's Court packing plan except that the Negro vote is becoming so great a factor that politicians of both parties will cater to it.

Some less complex measure will be needed in Congress to establish the nature of the two party system in the Kennedy Administration. When Nixon was defeated in 1960, the Republican Party showed little life.

The Nixon campaign had been undramatic and the influence of Madison Avenue was too marked in its operations. Then Goldwater took over, and apart from the prospects of his own candidacy, he gave the Republican Party a strong shot of purpose and goal.

The election of Senator John Tower in Texas added new life to what seemed to be a dying party. In this country, however, a party to affect the country must have a large personnel of able leaders. This the Republicans are failing to do in the generation now emerging.

The Pennsylvania Story

Remembering 'Ole John' Glenn

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — They're giving "Ole John" a big blast-off tomorrow down in the canyons of New York City—ticker tape, torn up telephone books and what-not.

We feel impelled to mention this in passing today in this "Pennsylvania Story" column (rather than the political blast-offs in this state which haven't gotten beyond the countdown stage yet) because we do have sort of "common bond" with Ole John: Astronaut John H. Glenn, that is.

Oh—there is nothing strenuous in this common bond stuff; nothing like brothers or sisters; we're not even related; in fact we don't even know each other; in fact we never heard of each other—or rather, he certainly never heard of this writer!

This common bond thing revolves around several factors, rounding out something like this:

We both served in ye olde Marine Corps during World War II; both in the Pacific theater; both did a bit of combat flying in Marine Corps "aircraft"—and that's about it.

One other thing—we almost beat him into orbit in outer space! Here's the story; another touch of that "common bond", and how we almost knew before he did what it would be like flapping around up there in the vacuum of outer space!

Fundamentally we were a line officer—not a pilot. However, between invasions and to help while away the time we oftentimes would fly bombing runs with Marine pilots we came to know at various island bases.

Such flying antics consisted of riding the "gunner's pew" aft of the pilot in the two-seat Douglas (SBD) dive bombers the Marine Corps used so effectively at that time. (Before we got through with this "extra-curricular flying jag" we wound up with better than 100 hours combat flying!)

It was on one of these strikes—bombing runs—that we nearly beat Colonel Glenn into outer space, although the highest we ever got to reaching "out there" was a lowly 15,000 feet!

As we headed down on our dive-bombing run all sorts of Jap junk slammed into the plane. At that point it seemed certain we were indeed headed for "outer space".

Nevertheless we did finish our bomb run and with our well-sieved plane, headed for our home airstrip.

However smoke began to fill our cockpits and the blasted engine started to cough and splutter. At best, we twitched and jerked through the air. At that point, as we approached the landing strip, both "Egghead" Acher, our venerable pilot, and I, decided to get out of the crate as fast as possible before it blew up.

Now, standard procedure in such "ditching" operations called for unfastening and heaving overboard the twin 30-caliber machine guns in the gunner's cockpit. In fact you had to do it to get out.

We couldn't loosen the locknut. That was the second time on that flight we thought surely we were indeed headed for outer space. To make a long story short: we prepared for crash-landing on the airstrip. Aircraft were cleared and we sat down—to a perfect three-point landing in a cloud of smoke.

The "AirOps" CO, an old salty Marine colonel, clapped us both on the back, commending Acher for bringing the aircraft back and making such a fine landing, saying to me:

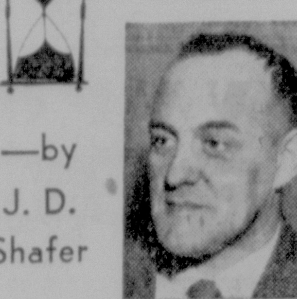

"Good work, lieutenant for keeping your head and not throwing out your machine guns in panic—that's taking care of Marine Corps property!"

We never got the chance to tell the old boy that the only reason we landed with the guns was because we couldn't get the blasted thing loose!

So to Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, USMC, we say hip-hip to your orbital flight; you flew somewhat higher than we did—by about 110 miles, that is, and we'll add this footnote:

We're glad you beat us to it!

Our proofreader wanted to let this mistake go. In Bill Lauff's outdoor column for Friday (Feb. 23) a paragraph of a story dealing with the end of the regular ice-fishing season read:

"Thereafter, ice-fishing is restricted to the use of not more than two hand-held jugs." The way it was set in type it read: "... not more than two hand-held jugs."

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The U.S. asked President Sukarno to release Allen Pope, the former U.S. pilot now under a death sentence for having flown bombing raids for the rebels against the Indonesian government.

The request was made by Attorney General Robert Kennedy

The Allen-Scott Report

Allen Pope Release Asked Of Sukarno

during his recent good-will visit to Indonesia, but never announced.

According to a Kennedy aide, President Sukarno first flatly rejected the request, but later told the President's brother that he would "consider it."

Attorney General Kennedy made the bid for Pope's freedom on the recommendation of President Kennedy and with the approval of the State Department.

"Full Accounting"—The headline-making swap of Soviet spy Rudolph I. Abel for U-2 pilot Francis Powers has triggered a quiet Senate inquiry into the fate of a number of U.S. military officers and civilians captured by the Communists since President Kennedy took office.

Sensors probing the "muzzling" of military officers are demanding a "full accounting" from the Defense Department of U.S. prisoners taken by the Communists or listed as "missing" in the fighting in Laos, and South Vietnam.

The number of these Americans held by the Communists is estimated at from five to 15 and could be even higher.

In his unpublished letter to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, Senator John Stennis, D. Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee, seeks a detailed list of these "forgotten Americans."

He also is requesting a full report on what the State and Defense Departments are doing to obtain their release.

Senator Stennis' explosive letter, which has gone unanswered for more than a month, is making the full rounds within the Administration. From the Pentagon the letter was shuttled to the State Department; from there it was rushed to the White House where it was read by the President before being sent back to the Defense Department.

Still to be decided by Secretary McNamara is whether the information on the prisoners should be sent to the subcommittee as classified or unclassified material. A classified status would bar the senators from making the letter public.

Partial List — Senator Stennis ordered the inquiry after Senator Strom Thurmond, D. S.C., presented to the subcommittee a partial list of Americans being held prisoner in Laos by the Communists, including:

John Shore, Jr., helicopter pilot, of Galloway, Tenn.; John B. McMorrow, a helicopter crewman, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Sergeant Orville R. Ballenger of Spring Lake, N.C.; Major Lawrence R. Bailey, Laurel, Md.; and Grant Wolfelt, NBC cameraman.

In all cases, except that of Major Bailey, these U.S. prisoners have been permitted to send out letters to relatives, according to data Thurmond gave the subcommittee.

The senators are also planning to fully investigate the fate of Americans taken prisoner during the Korean war who are still unaccounted for, and the Americans captured during the ill-fated Cuban invasion.

The number of "forgotten" Korean war prisoners total more than 375; prisoners taken by Castro's army total 1139.

The investigators want to know how many of these POW are still alive and what the government is doing to obtain their release.

As reported exclusively on February 1, the senators plan to air long-suppressed evidence, gathered during the Eisenhower administration, that 200 of these prisoners were taken to Russia during the Korean war and may still be alive.

This unpublished information came from two widely different sources. The first informant was a Chinese Communist prisoner of war. The second informant was Yuri Rastvorov, a Russian MVD intelligence officer who defected to the West in 1954 while employed in the Soviet embassy in Tokyo.

The fate of these prisoners will be aired in public hearings next month after the Senators finish questioning State Department officials on the role they played in the censoring of speeches of military officers.

Note: Defense Secretary McNamara will use the U-2 spy plane incident to support his refusal to push the Air Force's B-70 super-bomber. In testimony to congressional committees, the Secretary is going to point out that it just as easy for the Soviets to knock down the B-70 as it was the U-2, which can reach a higher altitude. McNamara is convinced the Soviets downed the U-2 with a missile warhead.

Listening In—During his private trans-Atlantic phone call last week, Prime Minister Macmillan told President Kennedy that he plans to attend next month's Geneva disarmament talks—the same that President Kennedy wants to keep at the Foreign Ministers level—If Soviet Premier Khrushchev turns up as he says he will. However, the British leader made it clear that he would go not to conduct any summit talks with Khrushchev but to counter personally any propaganda maneuver by the Communist leader. He also informed the President that he will ask the British parliament in July for approval to join the European Common Market. President Kennedy and Macmillan agreed that the British should keep their troops at the present strength of 51,000 in West Germany for the remainder of 1962.

Writes School Boards

Editor, The Daily Record:

I have mailed the following letter to all Secretaries of the eight members of the PMJ School Districts. It concerns matters affecting every taxpayer of the Jointure and I therefore believe it should be made public. Thank you for your kind and valued cooperation.

DON ROBBINS, SR.

Mr. Robbins' Letter

Mr. Secretary: Please read this at your next School Board Meeting.—To All Members of the District:

This is information you need. Confusion exists with the placing of insurance to protect the PMJ School property.

Place your share of this insurance with the agent or agents of your choice. All that is necessary is that he is a Pennsylvania licensed insurance agent or broker. He does not need to be a sub-agent of the Jointure broker.

Your share is that percentage of your monetary responsibility to the Jointure multiplied by 75 percent of the total amount of insurance.

Insist that the premium cost of this insurance be at the lowest possible price, not at the high premium cost quoted by your present broker which is the highest premium cost allowed by the State.

The fact that a three-year contract has been placed by the Jointure Committee does not obligate you to continue the same. It is your right to discontinue this contract with no penalties. The contract has not yet actually been written by your present broker. Any changes can be made that you desire even if it were written. Help to save up to $50,000.00, of the taxpayers money.

Dozens upon dozens of School Jointures have placed this protection with Mutual Insurance Companies at a total saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the taxpayers.

Don't be misled—note the following facts:

1—The underwriters of your bond issue, Ira Haupp and Company, state in writing that they "have no objection to permitting (a Mutual Company) from writing any of the fire insurance".

2—The 53 Pa. School Code, Section 774, states "The board of school directors in every school district shall have full power and authority to make and enter into any contract or contracts" including any mutual fire insurance company authorized to transact business in this Commonwealth, for the purpose of insuring against loss or damage by fire, or otherwise."

3—The Pa. Law Act of May 17, 1921 P.L. 682 as amended by Act No. 254 (July 3, 1957) Section 806.1 states—"Any Non-Assessable policy issued while said Certificate is in force shall be and remain non-assessable under all conditions". This means that if you carry a fire insurance policy marked non-assessable you cannot be assessed.

The acreage required for Tocks Island Reservoir is 62,370 acres.

To show how far plans are ahead, the project is scheduled to be in operation no later than 1975.

If any answer is to be derived from the above it is the note that if only one-third of the estimated 6,750,000 persons visit the area annually Monroe County and its sidekick, Pike, is sure to benefit financially from the venture.

By multiplying 2,166,666 by one dollar spent by one visitor you get a $2 million-plus business. Naturally each invader will spend considerably more—so a big buck will be left within the confines of the region.

There are more assets which could be listed but the recreational value alone is as they say, "worth its weight in gold."

It was the first time in history of the Post Office Department that a stamp commemorating an event was issued at the same time the historic event was completed. This may be a feather in the cap of the Post Office Department but it was a great disappointment to cover, as well as, stamp collectors.

Last week a short explanation of Precanceleds was given and also mentioned "Prefins". Prefins are stamps with initials or designs punched in the stamp by the use of "pinks" in a machine that will perforate an entire sheet of stamps at the same time. It is done to show

From The Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton

February 28th will see the release of the four and seven cent United Nations set and the five cent Canadian issue.

The United States pulled a fast one on all the collectors when they issued the four cent Project Mercury stamp. This was sure a surprise and was a very well kept secret. All the work on this stamp was done on off hours when the Bureau was closed and by employees while on "leave".

Six Monroe Areas Share In Refunds

HARRISBURG — Six Monroe County municipalities are scheduled to receive a total of $1000 in liquor and beer license refunds from the State Liquor Control Board.

The payments represent annual retail license fees paid to the board by establishments within the municipalities for either new licenses or renewals during the period from August 1, 1961 to January 31, 1962.

Monroe County municipalities and the amounts they will receive are as follows:

BOROUGH: East Stroudsburg, $100; Mt. Pocono, $150.

TOWNSHIPS: Barrett, $200; Coolbaugh, $200; Polk, $150; Stroud, $200.

No strings are attached as to how the individual municipality may use the funds — which represent the entire license fee, the board said.

Keystone Farmers Play Big Role In Foreign Trade

UNIVERSITY PARK — The world market continues to be a highly important outlet and source of income for Pennsylvania farmers, says a State-by-State study just completed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Pennsylvania farmers supplied the export market with products worth $7,000,000 in the 1960-61 fiscal year, the study indicates. Principal commodities exported were fruit, wheat, tobacco, poultry, dairy and livestock products.

"It is a real tribute to the efficiency of our Keystone State farmers that they are able to make this contribution to helping feed the world's consumers," says Dr. Russell E. Larson, Director, Agricultural Extension Service.

"Even though our farms are a long way from foreign markets, through foreign trade the two are brought close together."

"Foreign markets are giving our farmers a much better outlet and income than is possible from the home market alone."

"We need to continue to keep our eyes on events affecting foreign markets because these events have a real dollars-and-cents meaning to Pennsylvania's agriculture."

U. S. agricultural exports are at record highs, and last year $5 billion worth of U. S. farm products were exported, or about one-sixth of our total farm output.

Lippi To Appear In U. S. Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—August J. Lippi, arrested in connection with a shortage discovered in funds of the First National Bank of Exeter, Pa., has agreed to appear in court in Pennsylvania, the U. S. commissioner's office here said Tuesday.

An aide to U. S. Commissioner Sam Wentleb said that as a result, a removal hearing before Wentleb, scheduled for Tuesday was cancelled.

'Outside' Chatter In Timbuctoo

(Another in a series of articles on West Africa by Jack Gelinas, East Stroudsburg resident who is an official with Mobil Petroleum Co. in the former French Sudan).

TIMBUCTOO, MALI REPUBLIC — FORMER FRENCH SUDAN — After quickly settling in at the rest-house and reviewing research notes we had made on Timbuctoo before leaving Lagos, we decided on a leisurely stroll around the city, rather than choosing any particular point of interest.

But Madame Zena, the buxom, olive-skinned Tunisian woman who manages the rest-house wasn't that quick to let us go. She insisted that we join her on the terrace for a lemonade and talk about the 'outside world' she left 12-years ago when she made the journey here from Mopti in a dug-out canoe. She had no answer as to why she came, but she said she is very happy here.

A good-looking, middle aged Arab man soon joined us on the terrace. We thought he was Madame Zena's husband, but she said no, that her husband was Spanish. It is now the second day and we have yet to see the husband.

The extent of the Arab's conversation was to welcome us. But he was a good listener. And Madame Zena takes a lot of listening. But it was most interesting. She told us of the 'bush rest-house' she started here when she first arrived those 12-years ago, and our appreciation for the new rest-house soared. She said the new rest-house was built by French Commandant Raynaud two years ago, and that when it was completed he had asked her to run it for him.

"He was a fine man," she said, adding, "it is a shame that he had to leave after independence."

She then told us that there are less than a dozen Europeans remaining in Timbuctoo, and that most of these will be leaving soon — "We were excited when she started to list them, for we weren't aware that there was an American missionary and his family here. We have since been to his home and his wife said that he will be returning from a mission into the outlying districts tomorrow afternoon. So we'll be calling on him tomorrow. We should learn a lot from him about Timbuctoo and its people. Madame Zena also mentioned three French engineers, two living here with their wives, who have remained to supervise completion of work on the air-strip which was started nine years ago, and one French doctor who is still attached to the Army."

I am sure that it would be interesting to meet them, but my French isn't that good and therefore I spent most of yesterday searching for a native of this fabulous city who might speak some English. And I did find him. His name is Baba Mohammedu. But more about Baba later.

Look For Adventure — We thanked Madame Zena for the lemonade and set off for adventure. As we were walking down the dusty path, Madame Zena called after us and suggested that it might be best if we took our passports along and stopped in at the police station to register with the authorities — as it's the law.

I don't know why — I hadn't given it a thought before — but suddenly I realized that hearing the words police, authorities and the law, made me feel more relaxed. For the French have left Timbuctoo, and my thoughts went back to something I read in Horace Miner's book, published in 1953, THE PRIMITIVE CITY OF TIMBUCTOO, where he says, "A white man's life is now in no danger as long as the forts on the northern and southern edges of town are garrisoned by the handful of French soldiers and their seven hundred native soldiers."

The police station is a short distance from the rest-house, at the canal-head, and next to the 'big market'. We found the gendarmes on duty to be intelligent, kind and most friendly. In fact, since we arrived, we have been confronted only by kindness. True, kindness often runs with curiosity, but still, up to this writing the friendliness of the town's people seems genuine. And yet down deep I imagine we are despised for our Christian faith, for Timbuctoo is one hundred percent Muslim. What about the American missionary? Well, from what Madame Zena told us this morning, Reverend Marshall has yet to make a convert in nine years. But we'll learn more about that when we meet the good Reverend tomorrow.

Timbuctoo currently has a population of about 7,000, though some authorities believe that when at its zenith the city boasted twice this number. Three principal culture elements dominate the region — Songhai, Arab and Tuareg. Thus, the physical strains which have combined to produce the population of the city are Negroid and Caucasoid. And the language of each group is genetically quite unrelated.

The Tuareg are divided into three quasi-castes — nobles, serfs, and slaves. The slaves, who are known to the Songhai as Bela, live in the grass, beehive shaped huts surrounding the town. The serf, or Daga, are nomadic herders who move separately from the nobles.

The nobles rarely enter the city and are not numbered in the population figures. Even in the past their visits to the city were mainly for robbing, raiding and plundering. They can not speak Songhai and must use their Bela slaves as interpreters. The Bela are the only permanent residents of Timbuctoo who speak the Tuareg language — Temajeghi.

The Bela number about a thousand, the Arabs close to fifteen hundred and the rest of the population, for the most part, are Songhai. The latter are the true townsmen of the city.

When earlier I spoke of the peoples of the town as being friendly, I didn't for a moment mean to include the Tuareg. The Tuareg seem to deliberately — and with much pleasure — engender a feeling of fear wherever they go and with whomsoever they come in contact. Even when the French were in control, the control didn't extend to the Tuareg.

Violence among these nomads is not, nor has it ever been, uncommon. A townsman literally seems to cringe when a Tuareg so much as looks at him.

The city is always partly in ruins due to the heavy Summer rains, which although short are menacing. During the rains many of the mud dwellings are washed back into the sands and mud from which they were made. The homes of the more well to do withstand the rains better as they are coated with Timbuctoo stone, a very hard white clay which is quarried at a site a few miles from the city. But we found these types of structures to be few.

The smartest looking part of any house in the city — including the poorest — are the large wooden doors which we have found to be typical here. They grace every entrance. They are studded with huge-headed nails, some brass, bound with iron and adorned with a large iron hoop, which serves as a door-knocker. Many of these doors are scarred, and we have been told that the scars serve to remind the townsmen of the violence of the Tuareg — as the scars have been made by lance and spear.

This is a Ford Fairlane interior. There's no other interior like it. It's as roomy as the interiors in most of the cars on the road today — yet it comes in a car that's an easy-to-handle foot shorter than big cars. Even more surprising: although a Fairlane is bigger than the compacts, it is priced under many of them. The fact is, you won't find any new car that gives you Fairlane's big-car room, V-8 zip, and fine-car quality, anywhere near Fairlane's low price. There's never been a buy like Fairlane because there's never been a car like Fairlane; that's why this all-new car from Ford is outselling every other "new-size" car. Which is as it should be. After all, how can you beat an unbeatable combination!

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Unless your children were born with indestructible halos, you can remember the nights when, overstimulated, they just wouldn't go to sleep. And you rocked, and rocked, and rocked until they grew heavy in your arms and their eyes closed, and, oh so gently you put them down, and tiptoed to the door; which is as far as you got before you had the whole job to do over again.

No matter how tenderly you started, exasperation eventually set in and your gentle jiggling of the crib began to take on the aspects of a minor earthquake. Well, I'm having exactly the same sort of exasperating trouble with my own imagination.

Stimulated by winning an "international prize" from Italy, and the invitation to be present to receive it in the presence of the President of the Republic, my imagination promptly set about devising weird and wonderful ways of getting to Pisa without money.

"Hush," I told it, "you've had your share of miracles, so quiet down!" But all I have to do is look at the envelope and off it goes again, wide awake and screaming for attention. I concentrated on PTA meetings, on kitchen curtains, on paying end-of-the-month bills—and for a brief moment the silence of commonsense reigned.

But only until I met Maria Rouch for lunch. With her Italian beauty, enthusiasm, vivacity and the charm that comes from being really interested in you as a person, I had only to see her to remember just how wonderful that whole summer had been.

And when she started talking about her own life in Pisa, at the ancient university where great men from Galileo to Fermi have studied, about the gaiety of the cafes where students gather, the serenity of the city itself.

Of her wedding in the great Duomo next to Pisa's famous Leaning Tower, of the Campanella as it was before it was bombed, of the violets that are out in March in Pisa—of the pomp and ceremony when the President of the Republic comes with his honor guard—

Well, it's no wonder my imagination started screaming again. "You've got to go! You've got to go!" "Shut up!" I told it savagely, surveying a wide open page and a thin little calendar of events. "Win a prize and get fired from your job; that makes sense."

But I never yet have got a baby to sleep by slapping it so I guess I'll just have to let it cry itself out. But meanwhile, what about my sleep?

Motivation, Drive, Skill: Guideposts For Child's Future, Counselors Advise

Parents of the Smithfield Parent-Teachers Assn. had a preview of the guidance counseling which will be offered their children in high school together with some practical hints as to what they can do to help now at the program "Guideposts to Your Child's Future" on Monday night at the school.

The directors were James Werkheiser, director of the guidance program at East Stroudsburg Area Junior-Senior High School and Mrs. Eugene Martin, a guidance counselor in that department.

The first contact the elementary school child has with the guidance department is in the help the department gives in orienting sixth grade pupils of the jointure to seventh grade life in the new school, Werkheiser said.

This year color slides of life in the new building will be shown to the pupils in their respective schools, and later they will have a conducted tour through the new building.

Individual Counseling
"The heart of the guidance program is the individual counseling," he said, "with every student in grades 10 through 12 scheduled for at least one annual interview. Group counseling takes two forms: one is class meetings to discuss general topics, such as scheduling, study habits, and courtesy; the second are meetings of specific interest groups such as seniors interested in joining the service in seeking employment, or in colleges."

A Career Day Conference is held every third year to present firsthand insight into many vocations, careers and college requirements for qualified craftsmen, technicians and educators. Werkheiser also outlined the schedule for psychological testing in Grades 7, 9 and 11, and at the opposite end of the room. The two styles, blended by the designers, are repeated throughout the room. The walls of narrow panels of walnut, alternating with stripes of melon-toned vinyl wall fabric, provide good acoustics. A permanent exhibit, the new room was designed by a special committee of the Illinois Chapter of the American Institute of Designers.

New Room In Museum Joins Music, and Living, Woods And Styles For Livability

Not frequently are up-to-the minute, practical decorating ideas to be found in a museum. Historic rooms, art objects, fabrics and pictures, all rare one of a kind often inspire the beholder but leave no open path to home adaptation.

Different is the new music-living room just recently opened at the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry, which has new and livable suggestions, easy to duplicate.

Mixing wood species and tones, the room also shows harmony between a sophisticated background and period furniture with rich-toned wood as the catalyst. Lively melon and yellow tones are the accent.

And to the do-it-yourself home remodeler the walls are an inspiration, a one-man job, easy on the budget. The surface is broken rhythmically with slim panels of walnut. Between each is a strip of melon-toned vinyl wall covering. Mahogany is used for the shaped deep scalloped valance topping the striped effect. The result is not only handsome but acoustically good for music listening.

The floor is walnut parquet squares, stained a deep brown which highlights the paler shades of the furniture woods.

The rather long area is divided by a seating group near the center. One end of the room is given over to the creation of music on the organ. The other end is devoted to quiet listening. A viola and a violin add grace of line.

Comfortable upholstered furniture is small and easily movable. Even the love seat may be turned for concentration upon either musical source. The music pieces establish the furniture style. The organ in cherry wood is French Provincial, the Hi-Fi and twin speakers are in a long low cabinet of Italian Provincial design in walnut with deep brown tuscan finish. Three Italian Empire chair backs echo the curved paneled doors of the cabinet. The small sofa table belongs to the same style family as the organ. The love seat, chair and ottoman take color hints from each other and repeat the melon wall stripes. A modern painting on wood using vivid greens give sharp contrast.

The uncertain home decorator can take courage from its several adaptable ideas. The blend of woods and the blend of period styles indicates that imagination, not rigid rules furnish a room for greatest interest and livability. All furnishings are available in stores across the country.

Parents of the Smithfield Parent-Teachers Assn. had a preview of the guidance counseling which will be offered their children in high school together with some practical hints as to what they can do to help now at the program "Guideposts to Your Child's Future" on Monday night at the school.

The directors were James Werkheiser, director of the guidance program at East Stroudsburg Area Junior-Senior High School and Mrs. Eugene Martin, a guidance counselor in that department.

The first contact the elementary school child has with the guidance department is in the help the department gives in orienting sixth grade pupils of the jointure to seventh grade life in the new school, Werkheiser said.

This year color slides of life in the new building will be shown to the pupils in their respective schools, and later they will have a conducted tour through the new building.

Individual Counseling
"The heart of the guidance program is the individual counseling," he said, "with every student in grades 10 through 12 scheduled for at least one annual interview. Group counseling takes two forms: one is class meetings to discuss general topics, such as scheduling, study habits, and courtesy; the second are meetings of specific interest groups such as seniors interested in joining the service in seeking employment, or in colleges."

A Career Day Conference is held every third year to present firsthand insight into many vocations, careers and college requirements for qualified craftsmen, technicians and educators. Werkheiser also outlined the schedule for psychological testing in Grades 7, 9 and 11, and at the opposite end of the room. The two styles, blended by the designers, are repeated throughout the room. The walls of narrow panels of walnut, alternating with stripes of melon-toned vinyl wall fabric, provide good acoustics. A permanent exhibit, the new room was designed by a special committee of the Illinois Chapter of the American Institute of Designers.

Joint Service Planned For Newfoundland

NEWFOUNDLAND — Women of the area Moravian and Methodist churches will join together in holding a World Day of Prayer service on March 9 at the Moravian church at 2 p.m.

Plans are being made, with Mrs. Larry T. Women all around the world will participate in services of prayer on this day. An opportunity will be given to contribute to projects of the Foreign and Home Missions of the Council.

Mrs. Lindemuth notes that the services, which date back to 1887, were instituted as a "national day of prayer when there shall be confession of individual and national sins, with offerings that will fitly express the contrition."

In the local service, which each year is held in a different church, women from all four churches including Newfoundland Moravian, LaAnna, South Sterling and Hemlock Grove Methodist, will participate. The service is open to anyone who wishes to attend.

LET'S TALK AWHILE—

Probably the most upset Wyckoff-Sears employee on Monday was Al Van Driesen whose four year old daughter, Nancy, was rushed to Mercy Hospital over the weekend with a respiratory illness. Everyone is saying prayers for the little girl's speedy recovery... A card arrives from Russell and Marjorie Hamblin who are, at the moment, in romantic New Orleans. Oh, how I envy some people!... and everyone is welcoming the senior Wyckoffs back from Florida... Edna Brockman, head of our Travel Bureau, asks that I remind you of the scheduled bus trip, on Tuesday, March 13th, to the Philadelphia Flower Show where the theme is "Gardens of the Nations." Buses will leave Erie-Lackawanna Station, East Stroudsburg, at 7:45 a.m., and the front of our store at 8. The return trip from Philadelphia will be made at 4:30, with a stop enroute home for dinner. Bus tickets, on sale in the shoe department, are 4.00... Barbara Gilpin drops by to ask me to mention the concert of the combined choruses of the Jersey Central and New Jersey Power and Light Company on Tuesday evening, March 6th, at Stroud Union High School. It's something I wouldn't care to miss for several reasons: I love choral music; I remember Lorraine Merwin Miller, the director, from my school days when she was director of music in our school; and I recall the same days when Jack MacDonald, the accompanist, was our school pianist and one of the nicest fellows anyone could know. Please attend if possible, to honor Mrs. Miller and Jack; to support a worthy cause, and to give yourself a real musical treat.

A note from Harry Congdon, head of our Men's department, informs me we have lots of new Spring merchandise for the male customer... and perhaps the most timely of those items he lists is the McGregor Drizzler golfer jacket. With the downpour of Monday beating against my window as I write, it seems to me a man without such a jacket might well be drowned today! These jackets are completely water repellent and washable, and come in Cashmere Tan, Olive Grey, Gold, Light Green and Brown with regular lengths priced 11.95, longs 12.95, and giants 13.95.

Harry also mentions our complete line of Polished Cotton Slacks by Continental Tan, Blue, Black, Olive Green, Pewter, and Brown, as well as assorted plaids. These are both Ivy and beltless styles, sizes 30 to 42 with lengths of 29 to 34 at 4.98. And they're wash and wear!

As neat companions, we might suggest some of the lightweight sports coats in mid-weight Dacron and wool blend in a variety of new plaids and muted colors which promise to be very popular this Spring and Summer. The wool blends are 29.95; wash and wears, 25.00.

Then, of course, we also have short sleeve Banlon knit shirts by Arrow in assorted colors with black trim. These are 5.95... and here's something guaranteed to "suit" all men: our new Spring and Summer Middishade Catalog has arrived with many new, varied styles to choose from. Middishade can fit the 210 different figures of man, and overnight delivery is guaranteed at NO OBLIGATION TO YOU IF YOU ARE NOT SATISFIED. When Middishade offers this guarantee to back up A. B. Wyckoff's own guarantee that customers must and will be pleased, what more could anyone ask?

Stockholders 'Protected'

NEW YORK (AP)—Stockholders of National Distillers and Chemical Corp. will receive the company's annual report in a plastic envelope rather than a paper envelope this year.

The plastic is one of the products made by the company. National Distillers said the new wrapper provides half a dozen benefits, some direct and others indirect.

Varsity 'S' Benefit To Feature Chorus

UNDER THE direction of Lorraine Miller and accompanied by Jack MacDonough, both Stroudsburg natives and former teachers, the Combined Chorus of the Jersey Central and New Jersey Power and Light Company of 45 mixed voices will give a concert in the Stroudsburg High School Auditorium on Tuesday night, March 6, at 8:00 o'clock.

Openings In S-burg's Troop 'B'

THERE ARE only a few openings in Troop "B", 3rd Recon. Squadron, Army Reserve, Stroudsburg, First Sgt. Donald Smith revealed last night.

Among the openings are two special duty programs. The first is open to men 17 to 18 and one half years old. The second is for men 18 and one half to 25 years old.

The six month program of the first group enables a man to spend six months on active duty and the remainder of his obligated military service at home.

This program also allows the man to complete his high school education before being sent to active duty.

The second plan allows the enlistee to spend six months on active duty and the remainder of his obligated time at home.

The difference in the two programs is the length of obligated time the individual has and his age.

Sgt. Smith said, "Men in this unit receive training in radio repair, electronics, mechanics, clerical work, tank driving, operation and gunnery."

For more information contact Sgt. Smith in the local armory on Bank Alley, Stroudsburg, or telephone HA 1-4210 any Monday night.

Thule, they had 24 hours of darkness, zero 0 humidity, 25 below zero temperature and were only 50 miles from the North Pole.

The United States Air Force invited them to make this tour. The only other group of comparable size ever to have been invited to Greenland was the "Bob Hope Show".

Organized in 1957, the Chorus, whose services are free of charge to all organizations, has sung for more than 60,000 persons traveling throughout the state of New Jersey for many Service Clubs, Public Schools and Colleges, Institutions, State and National Conventions and just prior to the Greenland Tour made its second annual appearance at the Electric Living Show at the New York Coliseum where they spent a week singing ten concerts.

They also spend a week-end every July giving a concert of their own in the Great Auditorium at Ocean Grove, N. J. on Saturday night and joining in the Annual Choir Festival of 100 voices from 35 choirs of 6 states for an audience of 5,500 on Sunday.

Mrs. Miller is one of six chosen selected Guest Directors for this Festival and her Jersey Central and New Jersey Power and Light Company Chorus is the only Industrial Chorus to be included with the 35 Church Chorus.

Chorus members coming from all over the state of New Jersey are employees of the two Power and Light Companies and give voluntarily of their services. They do 30 to 40 Concerts a season in their strenuous schedule.

Varied Program

The chorus will sing a varied program which will include patriotic and sacred as well as novelty rhythm numbers and selections from the current popular Broadway shows. The Male Chorus and the Girls' Chorus will sing a selection or two each, apart from the entire Mixed Chorus. Also featured will be a tenor and a soprano soloist as well as the "Sweethearts of Song" — two attractive girls, who made a big hit in Greenland, doing "pop" duets.

Canadensis Moravian Choir Readies For Celebration

BARRETT — Members of the Canadensis Moravian Senior Choir traveled to Moravian College, Bethlehem Sunday for a choral practice with Richard Schantz, in preparation for the 506th anniversary celebration March 4.

The celebration will feature a choir of more than 200 voices led by Richard Schantz and accompanied by his wife at the organ console. Special old Moravian Musical selections have been chosen for the choir which is composed of representatives from 18 Lehigh Valley Moravian Churches.

The celebration sponsored by the Council of The Moravian Churches of the Greater Lehigh Valley will be the second such affair. The first observance was held at Moravian College five years ago.

A Symphony Prelude will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday March 4, by Professor Charles Noll and the Moravian Symphony in Brass and Reeds in Johnston Hall. One of the hymns which will be in the new Moravian Hymnal will be presented during the service, Entitled "Come Let Us All With Gladness Raise", the hymn was written just ten years after the foundation of the church in 1457.

Visiting Professor

The address will be given by Rev. Dr. Heinrich Renkewitz, visiting professor of ecumenics and Moravian Church history at Moravian Theological Seminary. He has a position in theology which crosses denominational lines and he is well known to many Christians.

The offering taken during the worship service will go toward the building of a Moravian Church at the wall between East and West Berlin. Members of the congregation of that church live on both sides of the Iron Curtain. Those from East Berlin were unable to contribute monies to the building of the new sanctuary but did manage to build pews for the edifice from wood in the Black Forest and transfer them to the Western Sector.

The Moravians worshipping in the new church will use the Krutitz Bible, a classic Czech translation.

Hopewell Breaks Warrior Point Mark;

THE RECORD BREAKER — Russell Hopewell's (22) gets off a long jump shot in the final half of last night's East Stroudsburg State-Cheyney game. The shot was good, enabling Hopewell to break the school's four-year scoring record.

Cheyney's Williams Sets Conference Record For Seasonal Point Making

By CURT PRINS
Sports Editor

Russ Hopewell became the highest scorer in East Stroudsburg State College basketball history last night, as the Warriors outtrun Cheyney 119-104 at College Hill.

Hopewell scored 46 points, to break the four-year record of 1,412 set from 1954 to 1958 by Charley German of Allentown.

Hopewell, a senior, now has 1,412 points, with two games remaining.

The Waynesboro physical education major wasn't the only record breaker in the strictly offensive game. The 119 points were a school single game record. The old record was 108, set last year against Philadelphia Textile.

Conference Record

On the Pennsylvania State Conference level, the Warriors broke Mansfield's year old field goal record of 48, by hitting 51 two-pointers. Hopewell had 21 of the field goals. He missed by a point of tying the conference scoring mark of 47 points a game, set by Kutztown's Don Kistler in 1956 and tied by California's Roger Hotz in 1959.

The Warriors weren't even close to the conference team total of 138 set, oddly enough by Cheyney against Lock Haven in 1955. That game went three overtimes. The regulation game high is 131 which Indiana set in 1956 against Edinboro.

The Warrior individual game record is believed to be 51 points set by Catasauqua's Kelly McLaughlin. Hopewell's best effort before last night was 43 points against Trenton in his sophomore year.

Must Check

There have been other records set in the free wheeling game but it will take a few days to check the old scorebooks.

Almost overlooked in Hopewell's performance, was the 37 point effort turned in by Cheyney's Ed (Mister Ed) Williams.

Williams' points pushed him past Bloomsburg's Dick Lloyd as the conference's single season high scorer. Lloyd set the record two years ago with 358 points.

Williams went into last night's game, the last of the season for the Bears, needing 15 points to pass Lloyd. He now has 381 points in 15 games.

Lloyd has a chance to regain the record. He has 321 points, with two games left, including a Thursday night appearance at Normal Hill.

The Warrior fans applauded Williams for his efforts but it was Hopewell they came to watch.

A check of scorebooks before the game, showed that he needed 44 points to break German's total. It had been originally thought that Hopewell had to get only 38 points to top German.

Most of the crowd did not know about the mistake and when Hopewell dropped in his 38th point, the stands exploded. The spectators sitting near the scoring table were aware of the mistake and when the Warrior co-captain connected on a long jump shot with 6:45 left in the game, there was an additional celebration.

Koehler Speaks

After the game, ESSC president, Dr. LeRoy Koehler, presented the game ball to Hopewell.

"I have heard many things said about Russell," said Dr. Koehler, "but never in four years have I heard anyone say anything bad about him."

Dr. Koehler continued: "I never thought anyone would break Charley German's record but I have enjoyed watching Russell do it."

After accepting the ball, Hopewell was greeted with standing applause, the third time in the evening that the crowd had gotten to its feet to salute him. The first tribute came on his 38th point, and the second when he was removed from the game with about a minute left.

Hopewell showed early in the game that it was going to be his night. He made good on his first six shots and had 12 of East Stroudsburg's opening 14 points.

Hold Lead

Despite Hopewell's efforts, Cheyney managed to hold a slim lead for the first five minutes of the game. But by the half, East Stroudsburg had a 20-point spread and Hopewell had 25 points.

He started the second half slowly, going six-minutes without a point. Then he started connecting in bunches and the closer he got to the record, the more accurate he became.

His record breaking shot was one of his best. It was a long floating jump shot from about 35 feet out.

Hopewell was a blushing swan about going after the record. He didn't hog the ball and when he got a chance to shoot, he didn't pass it up. His teammates helped him on several occasions by passing up open shots on lay-ups to give him the ball.

But most of the work was done by the slender senior. He used 48 shots for his total, and completed a 48 percent shooting average. Only seven of his field goals were on lay-ups.

The Warriors had little trouble breaking the single game record. They passed it with 2:10 left, when Gary Vanderburg popped in a short jump shot.

The victory gives East Stroudsburg a 9-10 record for the year.

In the preliminary game, the Warrior junior varsity won easily, 82-72.

Bonus Baby Krausse Works As If He Were Flat Broke

WEST PAL BEACH, Fla. (AP) — You'd think young Lew Krausse didn't have a dime in the bank the way he's working in the Kansas City Athletics training camp.

His weight is just right and he runs as if he were in training for the Boston Marathon.

Scouts with bulging check books were camped on Krausse's doorstep when he was graduated from Chester, Pa., High School last spring.

The A's signed him for $125,000. The youngster, then 18, startled the baseball world by pitching a three-hit shutout over Los Angeles in his first professional game. He pitched well in his second start, although suffering a defeat.

Arm Trouble

He closed out the year with a 2-5 average and a 4.82 earned run average. At one time he was sidelined for several weeks by a sore arm.

Clyde Klutzz, who was Krausse's manager in the Florida Rookie League this winter, claims Krausse's troubles were nothing more than inexperience.

"He had a big adjustment to make last year," Klutzz said. "He came right out of high school into professional baseball and he had a lot of growing up to do."

The best guess among observers now is that Krausse will have to go down to the minors for a little seasoning. But those who have watched his progress in camp figure he won't linger in the minors for long.

Cavalier Matters Pin Stroud Union 40-20

EAST Stroudsburg High School grapplers closed out a successful season last night as they tripped Stroud Union 40-20 in an interborough match.

Almost 400 fans watched as the Cavaliers rolled to seven pins and one decision in the 12 events. The Mountaineers posted three pins and one decision in the battle held at the East Stroudsburg High School gym.

East Stroudsburg matmen also won all four preliminary events with Larry Gordon registering the quickest win, a pin of Harold Davies in 58 seconds.

In the other prelim events, Jack Hine line beat Les David in 123-lb. class; Harold Boushell defeated Terry Bond in 163-lb. class and Dwight Fuller won over Ernest Ibarra in 183-lb. event.

Dunk Martz

The Cavaliers celebrated their fifth consecutive win by dousing coach Marlin Martz under the showers.

For Stroud Union, they failed to gain revenge for an earlier defeat. In the first contest between the two schools, Eastburg took a 39-12 victory.

The contest last night was the finale for both schools.

as they finished their first season in wrestling competition.

Stroud Union, coached by Dick Merring took an opening lead as John Chanaca pinned Ricky Heller with a body press in the 98-lb. class. The time was 42 seconds.

The Cavaliers ripped back as Dennis Petecovic won the 106 class by pinning Bob Quigley in 4:08 with a body press.

The Mounties went to the front again as Bill Grimm, in the 115-lb. class, toppled Don Sandt then pinned him with a body press, half nelson in 2:25.

Jack Hine line edged the Cavaliers nearer to the leading Mounties by virtue of a decision over George Van Buskirk in 123-lb. event shortly before Bill Yost decided William Petecovic in the 130 class.

Berry Wins

Stroud's Dave Berry continued to keep the Mountaineers in the contest via a pin of Mike Poortstrat in 1:55 in the 136 class.

However, the Cavaliers romped back and slammed the door on the visitors for the remainder of the evening. All the other matches were captured by the winner's and each came by the countdown route.

Charley Smith, Earl Metzgar, Bob Corby, Guydane Jones, Harry Lee and Bud Stann all collected pins in the last six events to push the Cavaliers far into the lead and eventually the victory.

After the contests, Harry Lee and Earl Metzgar were chosen co-captains for the season by the Cavalier grapplers.

Mets Seek More Diamond Talent

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —George M. Weiss, president of the New York Mets, said Tuesday he is dickering for two or three more established players, particularly a shortstop and a pitcher.

Jay Wants More Cash

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Joey Jay, a 21-game winner with the National League champion Cincinnati Reds last year, threatened to quit unless his salary demands are met.

Jay, a key figure in the Reds' surprising drive to the 1961 pennant, was frank in discussing figures.

He said he was paid $15,000 last year and was offered $20,000 for 1962. But, he added, he is asking $30,000 or more.

Reds' General Manager Bill Dewitt said the last offer to Jay was $22,500.

Jay declared "the next move is up to Dewitt and I have made no move to contact him. Maybe if he doesn't want me some other club does. If not, I have no alternative but to quit."

Jay is part owner of five West Virginia oil wells.

"Some of the clubs realize that we have a league problem in New York and that it is essential to put a presentable club in there," said Weiss, for many years the mastermind of the New York Yankees and now at the helm of the new National League team.

"I prefer to make outright purchases because we are not too deep in material now. I have been in touch by telephone in the last few days with several clubs, but everyone wants to wait a few weeks to see how their younger players are coming along."

Vets Named

Although Manager Casey Stengel of the Mets has not named his starting team yet, he has repeatedly mentioned veteran players at seven positions as follows: catcher Hobie Ladd, first baseman Gil Hodges, second baseman Charlie Neal, third baseman Don Zimmer and outfielders Richie Ashburn, Gus Bell and Frank Thomas.

There are four candidates for the shortstop berth—Felix Mantilla, Elio Chacon, Sam Drake, who spent most of last year at Houston of the American Association; and Bruce Fitzpatrick, from Newton Highlands, Mass., who has never played professional ball.

Dear Abby

Hit The Decks, Sailor!

Dear Abby: I am a sailor in the U.S. Navy. Recently I made plans to marry a 16-year-old girl from my home town. In order to get enough money to get married on, I reenlisted in the Navy for six years. I got a $400 bonus.

When I went to get married, my girl's father ran me out of the house and refused to let his daughter marry me. She's not old enough to marry without his consent. Now I'm in the Navy for six more years and can't get out. What should I do?

suddenly last November. At a Christmas party I renewed acquaintance with a man I had known for many years. On New Year's Eve he asked me to marry him. My teen-aged daughter became very upset when I told her, and said that out of respect to her father I should wait at least one year. When I told this man I wanted to wait, he cooled off and started seeing another woman in town. The talk around town is that he may marry her. I think I passed up a good thing and would like to have another chance with this man. How can I revive his interest without having it look like I am chasing him? Should I find an excuse to call him?

Dear Missed: Unless you can get word to him via a friend in a very subtle way, I am afraid you are out of luck. Don't call him. P.S. Your daughter may have done you a favor. The "love" you renewed acquaintance had for you was not very deeply rooted.

Dear Abby: My father is going to kill me when he sees my report card. I got A's and B's in everything except Citizenship, and I got a D in that. This isn't the first time I have been kept off the honor roll for Citizenship. When I asked my teacher exactly what "Citizenship" meant, she said she didn't like my "attitude." Now what does that mean? I don't think it's fair. What should I do?

LaAnna Resident Switches, Cooks For 12 On 81st Year

LA ANNA: Last year, Lee Kipp cooked his own goose for a birthday dinner on the occasion of his 80th birthday anniversary.

This year, he branched out and prepared and served dinner for twelve, with roasted fresh ham, applesauce, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, string beans, creamed oysters, scones, cranberry sauce, cabbage salad, chocolate and white cakes, and strawberries, a menu that would "do any housewife proud."

The local man, who notes that he is one day older than George Washington, since he celebrates on February 21, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Kipp, Paula, Larry and Dale Kipp, Lake Pungap, Greentown; Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Rake, South Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Stackhouse and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith, LaAnna. On Sunday, he was visited by his niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Burdette, Sayre.

Evidence First Before Buying

BERLIN (AP)—The women of the East German city of Halle now can buy diapers only if they produce a pregnancy certificate, the private West Berlin information agency Information Bureau West said Tuesday.

The reason for the Communist decree: too many women used diapers to make curtains or scarves.

Nfld Girl Cited For Essay

NEWFOUNDLAND—Jean Mary Burdick, Pennsylvania State Forensic Champion in 1961, was awarded an honor certificate by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge during the annual presentation of awards recently.

The local girl's essay, "What Freedom Means To Me," was entered in a national essay contest by Mrs. Robert Rochford, of Sterling, president of the auxiliary of Phillips-Zacharias-Phillips Post 859, American Legion, and Pennsylvania Department Americanism chairman.

Jean Mary, a freshman at Bloomsburg State College, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Burdick. While a junior student at SWJS, she won the regional championship in forensic competition at Norristown High School, competing against representatives of 12 Philadelphia and suburban high schools. Her classification was poetry reading, and she won with James Weldon Johnson's "The Creation."

Going to Pennsylvania State University, she won honorable mention in the State event in 1960. In 1961, she tied for first place at Norristown in the original oration classification, giving "Our American Heritage." This gave her a chance at State competition again, and she won first place against a field of five regional champions.

1st From Area

Jean Mary is the first North-eastern Pennsylvania student to capture the State championship, President of her senior high school class, she has had a versatile student career. She was president and a flutist with the student band; an accompanist and member of the chorus and a member of the student council. She also served as secretary of the Wayne County Future Homemakers of America, and participated in the junior class play. In 1961, she was selected as the school's "Homemaker of Tomorrow" after receiving the highest score in a written test on home-making knowledge and attitudes.

Barn Owner Snuffs Fire

STROUD Township Volunteer Fire Dept. answered an alarm at the Lewis Merola farm, Popular Valley, at 5 p.m. yesterday.

Chief Lester Rice said the fire was out when firemen reached the scene. Merola, returning from work as the fire broke out, turned water on the blaze, in the floor of the barn.

Rice said the barn contained five ponies, a Jeep and other equipment. There was no damage and cause of the fire was not determined.

'Wedding Gown Revue' Set For PM School Tomorrow

SWIFTWATER — The dais on the stage of the Pocono Mountain Joint Junior Senior High School will be surmounted by a floral decorated trellis for Thursday night's "Wedding Gown Revue".

Each model will proceed up the center aisle of the carpeted auditorium to mount the stairs of the stage and be framed in the trellis. Special lighting effects are being arranged to spotlight the models and show off the gowns to best advantage.

Background music will be provided as each model walks into the auditorium. During the interlude, Madalyn Maloney will give a running commentary covering the era of each gown, tying in historical events with the wedding day.

Clifford Werkheiser, Miss Katherine Williams, and Robert and Jean Wolbert will sing solo compositions and a duet. Prior to the opening of the revue, Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer" will be sung, by Miss Williams.

Climax of the show will be the procession of the complete wedding party of Mrs. Richard K. Savage, Stroudsburg. Her three bridal attendants will precede her down the aisle and flank her on the dais which has been built by the school.

Refreshments will be served by "mothers of the bride" in the cafeteria following the show. The models will attend in the gowns they have modeled to afford a closer look at fine detailing and materials used in the gowns.
